Selectmen look at improvements

By ERNIE JONES

The Bethel Board of Selectmen began the process of assembling, researching and prioritizing a list of capital improvements for the town to consider at a preliminary workshop session last week.

Board Chairman Arlan Jodrey drew up a rough list that the board then discussed. He suggested the town might want to consider a ditching project. He said there are areas, such as along Route 35, where runoff in the spring just pours onto the road and causes damage.

He felt, and the rest of the board agreed, that by digging some sort of drainage ditch along these troubled sections of road, a great deal of maintenance would be saved.

The board moved to do further research on such areas as how much it cost other towns to undertake such a project. The board will also seek figures as to how much it would cost to lease, possibly with an operator included, a John Deere, excavator to do the work.

Selectmen briefly discussed the possibility of rebuilding Mill Hill. The board will look into costs and just what can be done. Mr. Jodrey suggested the Department of Transportation be contacted to see what, if any, financial help they might be able to offer. The DOT might also help in surveying the area.

As with Mill Hill, selectmen are considering improvements on Broad Street. Some of the items they will consider include moving two hydrants and sidewalk repairs.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch gave a very rough estimate of $150,000 to $200,000 for the construction of an adequate sand/salt shed. The construction of the shed is required by the state and it will have to be built by 1990.

Mr. Lynch said he had visited a number of similar sheds in other towns. He and the rest of the board felt that a great deal of planning and research should be put into the project.

Selectmen hope to start putting away some funds for the project in the fiscal year budget. By appropriating funds ahead of time, the board hopes to reduce the impact of trying to pay for the required shed by spreading out the funding over four years.

Chairman Jodrey suggested that the costs of the shed might be reduced even further if the town can get the Maine National Guard to help pour the cement. The National Guard has contributed to many Maine municipalities by donating labor and money. Mr. Jodrey emphasized the chances of getting the Guard to help is dependent on getting a proposal to them soon so as to get on their schedule of projects.

A few items out of a long list of capital improvements selectmen hope to take up in the near future will include improvements at the town office, plans for the town garage and the possible purchase of a fire truck.

In other business, the board requested additional bids be sought for repairs and body work to one of the town ambulances.

Funding for recycling will be on the agendas of area town meetings

By MICHAEL DANIELS

At their annual town meetings this year, area voters will be asked to buy into the regional recycling initiative of the Oxford County Regional Solid Waste Commission.

OCRSC, a non-profit corporation representing 22 Oxford County towns, is applying for $500,000 in funding from the $5 million solid-waste bond to be approved by Maine voters last November.

The money would be used to set up the physical infrastructure—land, buildings, trucks, balers, etc.—needed to support a regional recycling program.

At their upcoming town meetings, voters in OCRSC towns will be asked to provide an additional $16,945 in matching funds, to help pay for initial capital costs and 1990 operating expenses.

Initially, 10 towns in OCRSC will contribute $1,000 in the proposed amount. Later, when more accurate waste production statistics are available, contributions will be based on how much waste a town actually generates.

The allocations sought in local towns are as follows: Andover—$5,932, Bethel—$16,765, Gilead—$1,547, Greenwood—$4,997, Hanover—$1,805, Newry—$1,559, West Paris—$9,286, Woodstock—$7,742.

In addition, each town will be asked to vote formally to join OCRSC, and to elect a representative to the corporation's board of directors.

It is not yet certain that OCRSC will be awarded the $500,000 grant, since competition for the bond-issue funds is expected to be intense.

But OCRSC should have an advantage, President Mike Cullinan, of Norway, said, because it is a regional body representing a large number of towns and unorganized territories.

Woodstock parents argue that their 6th-graders are fine where they are

By MICHAEL DANIELS

At an amicable, low-keyed meeting last week, school district officials and approximately 20 Woodstock parents discussed the pros and cons of moving the town's 6th-graders from the Woodstock School to Telstar Middle School.

The meeting was the first of three scheduled by the school board's Education Committee to sound out district parents on the issue. A second meeting was held in Andover yesterday (Tuesday) evening and a third is scheduled for Jan. 23 at Crescent Park School.

At present, Bethel and Locke Mills pupils enter the middle school in the 6th Grade, but Andover and Woodstock pupils enter in the 5th. The local elementary school through their 6th Grade, then move on to the middle school as 7th-graders.

There are no immediate plans to change this arrangement, according to school officials, but space pressures—especially at WES—may eventually make some rearrangement inevitable.

In addition, middle school teachers and administrators have repeatedly argued that all 6th-graders would benefit from the greater variety of programs and facilities at Telstar.

But, faced with considerable local resistance to moving the Woodstock or Andover 6th-graders, neither the school board nor the district administration ease to force the issue.

The current round of public meetings is not a prelude to such a move, officials insist. Education Committee Chairman John Foster earlier termed the meetings an attempt "to get the situation aired and to allow the members to speak."

But since the feasibility of such a move cannot be entirely ruled out, the meetings also provide the committee with an opportunity to size up parents' feelings—and to let parents know these feelings are not being ignored in any decision-making process.

"For the district to make any meaningful long-term plans, we need to have public input," Mr. Foster told the Woodstock parents at last week's meeting.

Resistance to moving the local 6th-graders is based largely on their age. "I think they're a little too green to be put into such a school with 17, even 18," Monica Marquis, a 6th-grader, said.

"It'll be a little more advanced."

Arts Patch, the district's elementary art specialist, said she has taught 6th-graders in both situations, and she thinks they're better off staying in their local schools. "I'd have to say I'd rather my child have the opportunity to go to elementary school through the 6th Grade," she told the parents.

She described, from her teaching experience, the impact on 6th-graders of having "all that intense middle-school

Selectmen to consider suggestion on recycling

Bethel selectmen, meeting last night (Tuesday), were to consider a request from the Solid Waste Committee to hire a part-time employee to monitor the town's recycling program.

The proposed part-time employee would be responsible for on-site education of the public to facilitate recyclables and what is not. A letter from the committee also states that this employee would be "necessary to ensure an effective and dynamic recycling program."

The committee is also recommending that it be allowed to set up a display of recyclables in the lobby or window of the Town Office.

Selectmen were also slated to consider establishing a sand and salt sale policy. According to a letter from Town Manager Rodney Lynch, a private business in a neighboring town asked to purchase sand and salt from Bethel. This purchase, however, the letter stated, but the road foreman was still concerned because it meant a long town-owned salt to an out-of-town business and not charging sales tax.

Manager Lynch was to recommend that the board discuss the issue and set a distinct policy towards the sale of salt that it be allowed to set up a display of

Real estate market posts third year of declining sales

For the third year in a row, real estate transfers in the Bethel area declined again in 1989, according to statistics from the Oxford County Register of Deeds. Newry, home of Sunday River Ski Area, was one of the few best-out-of-the-local-town registrars, having 38 sales last year. This was just half the total number of sales recorded in 1988, during the peak of the local real estate boom.

The slowdown of sales in Newry was particularly sharp because that town's real estate market is composed largely of condominiums. And as one broker said in regards to the condominium market: "Just be glad you don't have one you have to get rid of."

Other areas also saw declines in local real estate transfers, though not as dramatic as in Newry. Bethel's transfers declined to 210, down from 272 in 1988. Woodstock's property transfers declined to 115, down from 142 in 1988.

Only Oxford and West Paris saw the number of property transfers increase over the year before. The former, in fact, posted a new record of 255 sales over the year.

Local real estate agents blamed the slowdown on the virtually collapsed housing market in Massachusetts. "The Massachusetts market is down, so we're down," said Bob Bizer, of Bizer Realty, in South Paris.

Ginger Kelly, of Joly Real Estate, in Bethel, agreed, pointing out that local people are still buying and selling. The difference in the market is that, "The Massachusetts buyer is there."

Robin Zinchuk, executive director of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, said she has had numerous inquiries from restaurateurs in Massachusetts desirous of buying a restaurant in the Bethel area. However, she said, none of them can make the move because they can't sell their properties in Massachusetts.

Mrs. Kelly said the only properties selling in the lower-priced properties, such as the $100,000 range, are those that one of the factors showing downward real estate sales is that sellers had been placing unrealistically high prices on their properties. She said this trend has now stopped and prices are coming down.

Arts Patch, the district's elementary art specialist, said she has taught 6th-graders in both situations, and she thinks they're better off staying in their local schools. "I'd have to say I'd rather my child have the opportunity to go to elementary school through the 6th Grade," she told the parents.

Investigation of installation of a public phone at the Town Hall showed a regular coin operated phone in use 24 hours a day costs $24.45 a month and installation is $39. Contel would have to have access to the town hall to pick up the coins. There is a two-month wait for installation due to lack of coin operators. On a coin-operated phone, the charge is $21.35 a month, $38 installation.

The selectmen will discuss the phone issue further due to the limited income received from rental of the premises.

As of April 1, the homestead property tax exemption goes into effect under the legislative tax reform program passed last summer. All residents who are owners of residential property (including mobile homes) who own the property as a primary residence are eligible. Owners must apply by April 1 to be allowed 5 percent of the valuation of the property on the first $45,000. An item on the town warrant would make this a one-time application. The filing application will be included in the town warrant.

Opinions

And let the word go forth

The pie is getting smaller and when lawmakers return to Augusta for a four-month session the battles will probably center around who can get the last piece.

Gov. John McKernan told the public last month that the revenue coming into the state was falling short of his projections. As a result he ordered his department heads to plan for cuts and possibly layoffs.

Faced with less money to work with, and it being an election year, lawmakers will have to make some tough "guns or butter" decisions about what programs should get priority.

Add to this political recipe bills on the floor calling for additional appropriations for new programs. As a result, voters will, in all likelihood, hear lots of moans, groans and challenges in the Senate and House chambers. It remains to be seen just where the ax will fall or what social program bills will be chopped.

Taxpayers can rest assured about one thing however—there will probably be no new taxes. New taxes and getting re-elected don't mix well.

In the process, with less greenbacks to go around, some services will be cut. And if it is our elected representatives who will be making many of those cutting decisions.

Historically, representatives are a little more sensitive in election years to what they perceive are the wishes of their constituents.

For anyone who could be directly affected by cuts in services, there is no better time than now to stand up and be counted.

Get out the typewriters and get on the phone. Tell those representatives how you feel. The program you save may be your own.

from Greenwood, noted also that the time and effort local towns have already put into OCSWIC will also be a big factor when the Maine Waste Management Agency (which administers the bond issue funds) evaluates funding applications.

If the OCSWIC application is not funded in time, Mr. Edith will tell the towns who still press ahead with the regional effort, since it is less costly than independent efforts and more likely to meet state-mandated waste-reduction goals, which call for a 25 percent waste reduction by 1991 and a 50 percent reduction by 1994.

OCSWIC currently represents the towns of Andover, Bethel, Canton, Dixfield, Fryeburg, Gilead, Greenwood, Hanover, Hartford, Mexico, Newry, Norway, Ossipee, Paris, Peru, Roxbury, Rumford, Waterford, West Paris and Woodstock, as well as Lincoln and Magalloway plantations, Oxford County government and other unorganized territories.

Richard Skinner was scheduled to appear before the board to give a presentation on the ferry landing boat assessment.

Treasurer Alex LeGault submitted un-audited 1989 beginning balances on the various town accounts to the board. There is a $40,000 surplus in undesignated general fund prior to a $19,000 cash transfer by the town for tree growth.

The farm local roads figure of $72,149 includes money not yet paid to Blue Rock. The summer roads account has a surplus of $2,100, while the winter roads account is in the hole nearly $5,000. The treasurer has projected a $6 mil rate for the town.

Jane Rich will suggest that the Recreation Department add youthful members to the department for input.

"stuff" hit them full tilt...that incredible judgment about how they look, what they cost."

"They do adjust," she agreed, "but at what cost?"

Other parents described how well—with some exceptions—their older children had made the transition where they went off to the middle school as "tough graders." The parents credited the staffs at both WES and the middle school for making the transition prove a very positive experience for most of the pupils, but no one wanted to move it up a year.

In regard to the experience—and exposure—the children will have at the middle school and high school, Denise Putnam, a parent and school director, said: "They'll have five years of that experience. Why would I want to expose my son or daughter to that year earlier? The day will come when they go there to play with the other kids, to learn about pretty good girls in high school."

Leave things as they are, she argued, "We're sending prepared, happy campers. I like it the big step."

Some parents did acknowledge that they might be having more of a problem facing the transition than would their children, many of whom appear eager to take the big step.

Others spoke of a psychological barrier they feel exists between Woodstock and Bethel. "It's the town," Peggy Tripp said. "We had consolidated with West Paris, and we're sending prepared, happy campers. I like it the big step."

We had lots of business and set lots of dates at our teachers' meeting this week. Rank close on Jan. 19. Student reports will be given on Jan. 20 and 31. Please be home for a conference if you are coming home the week of Jan. 22. Please indicate in general when you can come in and return the slips promptly so we can schedule families consecutively. We will send home your official time with the student reports. The scheduled conference day is Feb. 5.

Kindergarten classes are scheduled to switch on Jan. 22. Those that have been attending now will now come in the afternoon and vice versa.

On Jan. 29 Grades 4, 5, and 6 will be participating in a Geography Bee. We have not done this before, but it sounds like fun. It also may encourage bringing geography back into the classroom in more depth. More details on this later.

There have been lots of activities going on this week. All classes are learning about Martin Luther King. Today we celebrate him on Jan. 15. Mrs. Verkouille showed a film called "The Boy, King." It was about Mr. King as a child and depicted some of the events in his life that influenced his lifetime of leadership.

The 6th-graders planned and enjoyed a Mexican lunch for Thursday. They have finished up their studies of Mexico and are celebrating the 100th day of school.

Most 5th-graders have written their own "Home is a Dream" composition.

We had lots of fun again and another one of our letter writing activities received a reply. LCPL Clifford Teshen received our packet of Christmas cards and letters that we wrote to a service person who did not get home for Christmas. He has been stationed all over, but calls Idaho home. He said he would write again if we wrote to him so we are writing again. Another packet of letters for him. In conjunction with our social studies unit on the American Revolution, I am reading an historical novel, "My Brother Sam Is Dead." This is excellent realistic fiction.

The 4th-graders are finishing up their science unit on friction and the big test is scheduled for Thursday. In English, or language arts, they are learning how to set up and write a formal letter, good preparation for all the letters we will be writing in 5th Grade.

Third-graders are improving their journal writing skills. They write every morning. A topic is put on the board or they choose one of their own. They especially enjoy sharing their writings with their classmates. Mr. Burke is reading the treasured "Little House In The Big Woods," by Laura Ingalls Wilder.

The 2nd-graders are welcoming Mrs. Elizabeth Fox who has just moved here from Lovell. Mary arrives in time to begin a math unit on measurement. The class has also received its first reply from their pen pals in California and they are learning about letter writing while preparing their responses. Rebecca Chase is the special student of the week. Enjoy the week, Becky.

The 1st-graders are having fun making postcards called "When I Walk In The Forest." They are playing a new reading game, "Word Builders," which uses vowel sounds and then builds a word around the vowel sound. They are getting some exercise in math and learning to tell time by using their bodies to depict the hours.

The kindergartners are learning about the letter M by making them in their sand trays. They are making other books 0-6 for a math task. Our weekly calendar says they are also making snowmen. This is that time of year!

Tri-Town Rescue

Bill Severance, from Stanhope, will teach an EMT refresher each Wednesday night at the Tri-Town Rescue barn through the month of January. Several Tri-Town members are taking the course which will enable them to renew their licenses for three years. Training will be scheduled for Jan. 23 due to the EMT course.

Activity is picking up in Bryant Pond as the service prepares to move into the new municipal complex. Wall and floor have a new coat of paint and the access will soon be on Church Street.

Tri-Town is planning its annual meeting for Feb. 21. Awards, election of officers, and pot-luck supper are scheduled to take place at the meeting.

Another week of moderate temperatures for January or not a long January. The 17th turned out to be a nice day, the 18th a mixture of weather making not the best traveling. Had an appointment at the doctor's and while I was waiting up it began to rain. I had a few errands in town and when those were done decided to go home and call the doctor. Should have known if I had an appointment, as one of the neighbors used to joke, "Well, if I was going to see you that's when I'd come." Then I was asked if she would make plans for the day because if she made it the day I was going she could count on bad weather.

High Street West Paris

Doesn't look like too good a day today as I sit down to type and the report on the TV and radio doesn't sound too good either. Hope somehow they are wrong, as I have a couple of appointments in town today and I don't like to drive in bad going as I can't handle the car as well as I used to. I can drive in the snow but the ability to cope with storms is not the same.

I expect I will manage somehow. How nice it has been to have the warmer weather lately. Just seems like heaven to be able to go for my walk but I am sure it won't last too long. I just can't go walking in the deep freeze weather as my legs won't take it but I have been the last couple of days and enjoyed it immensely.

Got some things ready to embroider a week ago and started the job of embroidering the designs after getting them stamped onto some bureau scarves I had made.

Peggy and Russell went to town to do some errands and in the afternoon they went for some sand for the icy yard so we could get the car to break some bones.

Bertha Bent had dinner with us yesterday evening. We had seen the car when it left and didn't know just who it was but she told us that Bertha had supper with her.

Jan. 4 was my birthday and Russell presented me with a box of puffs to try. They are more expensive so I hadn't bought any to try so I am glad to get them as I use a lot of tissues. He had bought me some earlier when we were shopping and had to pick out what I liked.

That is nice as I have a box of clothes. Wouldn't have as many if I didn't. Got several telephone calls wishing me a good day and in the evening, Wynona, Courtney and Kariann came with gifts and had supper with us before hurrying home again. It was raining so didn't expect her to come. However, she doesn't miss her mother's birthday very often. Got some jewelry and a curtain cabinet from my family. Got some money which is always a good gift as it helps in whatever way one needs no matter how big or small. Also got some name tags to stick on envelopes from Laura. Had made myself a birthday cake, the macarobiotic way it was good.

Peggy was going to visit Mary Smith so Russell and I wanted some things in town, we went there first and then to Vicksburg.

Friday was my day to go to North Bridgton and see Dr. Jenkins. He said my ear drum wasn't working so made an appointment for me to see Dr. Payton who comes up from Portland to see folks in Bridgton or there abouts. He is a busy fellow when there.

In the evening, Peggy and Russell went to the dance in Mechanic Falls with

Telstar foils strong Mount Abram effort

Telstar High School demonstrated why a team should never give up as the Rebel basketball team overcame an upset-minded Mount Abram last week for 60-57 win.

Telstar fell behind early in the contest but never gained the lead until late in the period. The Mount Abram defense kept the Rebels at bay for most of the game.

Zealous defense also had its downside for the Roadrunners, as they were whistled for 15 penalties.

Corey Duguay led the Telstar attack with 16 points. Teammates Tony MacKillop and Aaron Bean also hit for double figures in the Mountain Valley Conference contest.

Charlotte Cole and Mary Stone from Locke Mills. Guess they had a good time all I could tell.

Saturday was a day when I didn't do too much. I have been having a bad time with my shoulder and left arm didn't do much. Too much fun, etc. Peggy went to the dance in West Paris that evening. Said they had a good crowd there.

Sunday after dinner, Peggy, Russell and I went to East Andover to visit Laura and Bertha Hutchins. Had a nice visit there and then went to West Bethel where Peggy got some fruit that had been sent to her from Mrs. Reed, a lady she worked for in Massachusetts. Said that I hadn't seen Laura and Bertha since they got it finished and were living in it so it was a pleasure for me to see how they had gotten it done. A real nice home for them.

Monday was a day for me to go for another treatment as my shoulder and arm were painning so much. Saw Dr. Fife in South Bridgton and then went to Bridgton to see Dr. Payton. Took the whole afternoon with the two calls.

Still having trouble with the shoulder and arm and guess it is going to continue by the feeling. It just doesn't want to straighten out for me and stop paining. Mary Loveloy's mother Impy Mack has been having pneumonia. There has been so much bronchitis and pneumonia this year that it is far from funny. Verna Pike called on the Loveloy's yesterday. He is feeling much better and Mary said he is back to his old self again.

The Christian Congo Church finally had its Christmas program and tree this past Sunday. Weather and one thing and another had prevented them having it before then.

West Paris Grange will hold a meeting on the 18th of this month and visitors are welcome.

Congratulations to new parents Gerald and Alberta Broomhall on the birth of Gavin Roy on Dec. 14 at Stephens Hospital in South Bridgton.

I forgot to mention over the holidays that we attended a Christmas party at John and Alta Lulliam's in East Bethel for members and friends of Praise Assembly of God. Those present were Rev. Robert Rainville, Denise Rainville, Tammy Chopping, Dot and Roger Chopping, Jean Wiggett, Sarah Smith, Warren Oakes, Marta and Maggy Lorenz, Alan Larsen, Raymond Chase, Nellie Fitzgerald, Anna and Artie Conner, Linda Hughes, John and Loraine Mills and John and Alta Lulliam. Denise Rainville led the group in games and relays. A lunch of meat pies, cookies, cheese, crackers and punch were served and a gift swap was enjoyed by all.

There will never be a better time to reserve a Fairway Townhouse Condominium or a Single-Family Homesite on the Golf Course

Plans for new Fairway Townhouses and single family home sites are in the final planning stage, and the opportunity for pre-construction prices is now.

— It's no secret that the real estate market has flattened. Our luxury condominiums are priced accordingly for now, but will increase substantially over time. A $1,000 reservation deposit will guarantee today's pre-construction price.

— Expect all ten of the new units to be under contract prior to construction, as were the original 40, with price schedules starting at $165,900.

— While planning for the homesites is in its early stages, we expect prices will begin around $20,000.

— A reservation deposit of $1,000 will insure availability and selection priority of either a homesite or condo. This deposit is refundable, plus interest, at any time, for any reason.

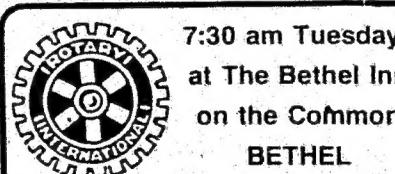

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY
Of the original 40 Townhouses one is available now for immediate occupancy and priced to sell at $179,900 with complete furnishings. This unit is in the prime location, closest to the Inn Complex.

A SPECIAL OFFER... Reservation deposits received prior to February 15, 1990, on a Townhouse or homesite, will entitle you to a three-year free Country Club membership from your date of occupancy. A $3,000 value if you act now.

Newry

By GIL SEELEY

The Newry Mother's Club met at the Municipal Building Jan. 8 at 7:30 with Cindy Moxey presiding. The meeting was opened with a quote from King Solomon's wisdom on how to cope in 1990 by Gil Seeley.

Roll call, 10 members present. Treasurer June Swan brought the finances up to date. Letters of thanks were read about the fun we had at the Halloween party. A check was made to the Newry Library.

Olivia Anderson, our Sunshine Lady, reported on sending chears to the shut-ins. There was more talk on the club party of "Shop and Save" to be planned later in the summer.

The store will furnish the food but want at least six volunteer members to help with the cooking, etc.

It was noted to give a sum of money instead of flowers for our members who learned who passed away in 1989. A nice sum was raised for the help and spent for the sales if the club decides to have one later. There will be an exchange of valentines at the next meeting Feb. 12, also a discourse by leader Lyn Boschetto of Bethel. The mystery prize was won by Gil Seeley. The snack committee for next meeting will be Shirley Keith, Mary Morin and June Swan. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by Cindy Moxey, Eleanor Davis and June Swan.

After the meeting, Beth Gruber of Newry, a single lady, demonstrated how you can be beautiful with proper makeup and coordination. Our thanks to her. Beth, Shirley Clark, Nancy Night, Cindy Moxey and Gil Seeley were the models.

No bowling this week, too many commitments.

"Newry Happening" at Windy Valley, RT 26, I saw my neighbor put his trash bag by the curb. On Tuesday when he came to get it, the same time the truck came at 11 a.m. and the trash was scattered down the bank and all over. The truck man picked what was left of the bag, two ravens were picking what they wanted and were carrying it away. They kept that up until my neighbor came home at about 3:30 p.m. He spent about one hour cleaning up the scattered trash (there must be a better way).

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Bachelder and family were visiting Aaron's father and mother, Regg and Karlene, sometime last week.

FREE SKI LESSONS

Sunday River Cross Country Ski Center is offering a Free Learn To Ski Day on Jan. 19. It is part of a national ski campaign to introduce people to the sport of cross-country skiing.

If you have never skied before or would like to pick it up again consider participating on this special day.

The Cross Country Ski Center will surely participate with the latest of equipment, which includes waxless Fischer skis, bindings, boots and Excel poles plus lesson and trail pass for the day. Lessons begin at 10:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., and 2:30 p.m. It is advised to call in advance because space is limited.

In addition to the 7:30 lesson there will be a night ski. Every night from 7:30 a.m. a small loop is lighted by electric lamps with a bonfire and a marshmallow roast out on the trail system. For those that the teeth was scattered down the bank and all over. The truck man picked what was left of the bag, two ravens were picking what they wanted and were carrying it away. They kept that up until my neighbor came home at about 3:30 p.m. He spent about one hour cleaning up the scattered trash (there must be a better way).

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

The Willing Workers met at Ledgerview Reception room Wednesday night with Debbie Poland, Tommy Poland, Carol Corriveau, Esther Davis, Martha Clements, Olive Davis and our president, Andrea Wing present.

They were entertained by Rev. Don Rollins who sang several songs with guitar accompaniment. He also played on the harmonica. The songs were original except the last one which was a hymn. We all enjoyed his music very much.

The president called the meeting to order. It was voted to keep the dues at $2 a year. A silver collection was taken up for charity work. This subject was discussed at great length. Plans were made to review programs at each meeting. Carol Corriveau was appointed on Membership Committee. We would like anyone who is interested in our little association to come to one of the meetings and be glad for anyone to join us. The next meeting will be at Ledgerview on Feb. 7. Come and join us then.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews took dinner with Olive Davis Sunday. They had a real treat. Arthur pulled down my wood so I could reach it better which I appreciated.

I had a letter from June and Irving Cushman. They are in Florida. She said that the cold weather was bad and the temperature was 17°. The pool was too cold to enjoy right now. The trees were losing their leaves which had turned brown from the freeze. The plants were also hurt from the freeze.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks and I attended Oxford Grange Friday night. They were holding lecturers' night. Many different speakers were present.

Franklin Grange is having one meeting a month for January, February and March on the 2nd Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Esther and Olive Davis called on Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Giddings Saturday.

Kenneth had returned home from his bout in the Norway hospital where he had a gall bladder operation recently.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club met for its regular meeting yesterday (Tuesday) at The Bethel Inn.

Visiting Rotarians and guests were: Wende Gray, Bethel; Dave Costello and Ed Snook, Lewiston; Dick Fain, Bethel; Bill Jewell, West Bethel; Mac MacCann, Canaan.

Roger Goss was the lucky winner of the 50/50 raffle. He donated the winnings to the Rotary Scholarship fund.

Rick Whitney gave Rotary Information. The Board of Directors of Rotary International, formally approved the Soviet Union, Poland, Hungary, China and Yugoslavia for Rotary Development. The two newest clubs in that area are Warsaw, Poland, and Budapest, Hungary.

Don Hart and Ted Davis gave an update on Career Awareness.

The guest speaker was Tom Ford, physics teacher at Gould Academy. He, with the Rotary program director, George Larson, demonstrated principles of physics by laying on a board of nails as well as breaking blocks on the chest of the person laying on the nails. This demonstrates the kind of exciting learning Mr. Ford enjoys bringing into his classroom. Gould Academy is fortunate to have him on our faculty.

The next meeting will be held Friday at 7 p.m. at the Bethel Inn.

Tom Ford, physics teacher at Gould Academy, has been selected to receive the 1990-91 Distinguished Service Award.
